FR. BOB'S WEEKLY BLOG

Imagine walking into a cocktail party. People are dressed to the nines. Various conversations are taking place. You join a group already engaged in conversation about the news of the day and the current state of the Chicago Bears.

A few minutes later, a new face comes into the group. After some initial small talk, the new arrival tosses this hot potato into the fray. "What do you think happens when we die?"

Errrrrrrrrrrr!!! That's the sound of the conversation coming to a screeching halt. A couple people in the group suddenly need a re-fill on their gin and tonic. Another person uncomfortably looks around. The other two folks stand silent.

Let's face it, talking about death can seem morbid. And yet, death is a daily reality. Statistics show us that roughly 150,000 people die every day somewhere in the world. That's 6,600 people per hour or 110 people each minute.

Humanity has a 100 percent mortality rate. The richest person in the world will die, as will the homeless person under blankets at the bus stop. Here's an Italian proverb. "At the end of the game, the king and the pawn both go back in the same box."

Our readings for the Fifth Sunday in Lent invite us to see death not as an end. Unfortunately, many people in our culture today do view death as an end. There is nothing more. When someone dies, that's it. No wonder this view of death causes so much angst and fear.

From our perspective, human beings are not just a body. We are body AND soul; an embodied soul, to be more precise. We are both material and immaterial; physical and spiritual. Take a moment and think about it. You are not an animal, and you are not an angel. We are somewhere in between.

Our earthly body has an expiration date, but our soul is immortal. The soul still exists when the earthly body dies. The promise of Christ is that our immortal soul will one day be join our glorified body in the new heaven and new earth. Jesus boldly proclaims, "Behold, I make all things new."

A healthier way to view the inevitable is to prepare for it. This approach gives context to how we are living our lives right now. Mindful of eternal life, we do our best to love God and love neighbor. Am I in right relationship with God? Do I live each day as an instrument of God's love? Or has my life become solely about my own comfort and convenience?

One of the great problems today is that far too many people no longer believe in God, no longer believe in the afterlife. This leaves us only with the here and now. Depressing slogans like "You only live once," rule hearts. With this mindset, we make decisions based not on the common good or for doing things for the greater glory of God, but instead we make selfish decisions. "What's in it for me," or "What do I want?"

This secular atheistic mindset also leads to dehumanization. We lose respect for the sanctity of life because without God, nothing is sacred. In our human arrogance and pride, we begin to build a modern-day technological Tower of Babel. We will be gods, so the thinking goes. We lose touch with reality amidst the growing insanity.

Jesus, however, by his suffering, death, resurrection and ascension, prepares the way for us to follow. The reality of the cross is united with the reality of resurrection; new life in Christ. This new life in Christ begins NOW (in this world) but continues through bodily death to life beyond time and space.

We tend to be afraid of the unknown. We fear the unknown. This is natural for the human condition. Christ, however, makes death known by his own crucifixion, and he makes new life known by his resurrection on that first Easter morning. Love is stronger than death. If we share in his cross, we shall also share in his resurrection. This truly is GOOD NEWS.

Having a proper understanding of death helps us be more present to the needs of today. We begin to live with meaning and purpose as we do our best to be good stewards of the earth, and good neighbors to those around us. We no longer allow ourselves to be distracted by superficial things, things that don't last. We can forgive others because God has forgiven us.

We can re-focus our lives on what truly matters. We become aware of the fragility and brevity of our lives on earth, and we start to live for the greater glory of God, the One who is the Source of all that is.

Jesus says, "I am the resurrection and the life; whoever believes in me, even if he dies, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die."

Do we believe this?

HOSPITALITY/USHER APPRECIATION

This is just a quick thank you to those men and women who are currently serving as ushers/hospitality folks at our weekend Masses.

Who are these parishioners? They are the ones who mainly help with our collection baskets and with our Communion procession. You might also see their smiling face greeting you when you walk in.

We appreciate them stepping up and serving us each week.

HOWEVER, we need more helping hands so that they don't have to "be on" each week. We will be asking other parishioners soon to please consider being an usher/hospitality volunteer. We'd like to get this ministry so that you are only on once a month; maybe twice. Thank you!

FR. MATT'S REFLECTION

"That's who." Usually the response, "That's who," is said with a sense of relief, a final determination of who a mysterious individual is. We hear that response, that reaction, "That's who," when a two or more people are speaking about the same individual whom they have met but might not know the person's name. I was speaking with a visitor recently about a former coworker of mine from college. After a few minutes, the visitor realized that he knew the same person; it was a "That's who," moment, which furthered the conversation.

Lent has provided us with several examples of "That's who," moments. The Parable of the Prodigal Son is a familiar annual account of God, through Jesus, revealing that He really does desire our reconciliation with Himself, analogous to the father in the parable desiring his younger son's reconciliation with himself and even later of the older son being reconciled with his younger brother. Two Sundays ago, the Samaritan Woman (Woman at the Well), whose name we do not know, becomes an early witness to Jesus among her fellow Samaritans after she speaks with Jesus and reveals that He knows her and her life. Last Sunday, the Man Born Blind, whose name we also do not know, becomes another early witness to our Lord, this time among his fellow Jews, parents, and even the Pharisees, after Jesus cures him of blindness. In just these three examples, the father and his two sons in the Parable of the Prodigal Son, the Samaritan Woman, and the Man Born Blind all are anonymous according to the Gospels yet they have become known to billions of Christians by their examples of faith. Put another way, who is a missionary, who hands on the Catholic faith, people, such as the father of the Prodigal Son, the Samaritan Woman, and the Man Born Blind, people who realize God's mercy, love, and goodness to them, that's who.

The Gospel Reading for this Fifth Sunday of Lent shifts to specific people whom we know by name, specifically, Sts. Martha, Mary, and Lazarus. St. John the Evangelist recounts who they are for us, two sisters and one brother. at the beginning of the passage. This entire account culminates in a "That's who," revelation about Jesus as well as further demonstrating who follows the Son of God.

Recalling one of Jesus' names, a name which we hear around Christmas, Emmanuel, meaning "God with us," the Savior reveals that God is with Sts. Martha and Mary in their grief for their brother: "When Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went to meet him; but Mary sat at home. Martha said to Jesus, 'Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. But even now I know that whatever you ask of God, God will give you.' Jesus said to her, 'Your brother will rise.' Martha said to him, 'I know he will rise, in the resurrection on the last day.'" Jesus told her, 'I am the resurrection and the life; whoever believes in me, even if he dies, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?' She said to him, 'Yes, Lord. I have come to believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, the one who is coming into the world.' When she had said this, she went and called her sister Mary secretly, saying, 'The teacher is here and is asking for you.' As soon as she heard this, she rose quickly and went to him. For Jesus had not yet come into the village, but was still where Martha had met him. So when the Jews who were with her in the house comforting her saw Mary get up quickly and go out, they followed her, presuming that she was going to the tomb to weep there. When Mary came to where Jesus was and saw him, she fell at his feet and said to him, 'Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.'" (John 11:20-32)

Both St. Martha and St. Mary profess that Jesus, if present before their brother had died, would have prevented his death. Already, they believe our Lord capable of accomplishing miracles, and now, He is with them. As the reading continues, Jesus raises one who is dead; He resuscitates St. Lazarus to life. Before accomplishing this mighty work, Christ reveals why He has waited to go to St. Lazarus and awaken him: "I am glad for you [the Apostles] that I was not there, that you may believe. Let us go to him.'" (John 11:15) Who is Jesus? He is God with us, the author of life, the one who will conquer sin and death, that's who.

What we believe and pray: Who from the Bible or among people living on earth now have you noticed this Lent? Have you thanked God for those who have been a witness of the Catholic faith to you?

What to stop doing, sins to avoid: Do not be afraid to live realizing that God is with us or to keep Him at a distance. What to do: Remain with the Lord this Lent and follow St. Thomas' confident response, "'Let us also go to die with him.'" (John 11:16)

"And behold, I [Jesus] am with you always, until the end of the age." - MATTHEW 28:20

Jesus Project

This year, our Faith Formation Students in levels Seven and Eight have focused on the person of Jesus in the Gospels.

These students used a variety of creative art forms to depict a Jesus story of their choice. The projects will be on display in the narthex for viewing by our parish community beginning March 25th.

Please take the opportunity to view these wonderful works created by our Faith Formation Students.

PRAYER REMINDER

Our Eighth-Grade students from St. Symphorosa School along with all our level eight students in our Faith Formation Program will celebrate the sacrament of Confirmation on April 23. Also, our St. Symphorosa Second-Grade students and all our level two Faith Formation Students will receive Jesus in the Sacrament of the Eucharist for the first time on May 6. We invite you to please prayerfully remember all of these young people, that they will remain faithful disciples of Jesus.

The Seventh-Grade Family Mass will be held on Sunday, March 26th at 9:00 am at our St. Symphorosa church. All seventh-grade students and their families are invited to attend this Mass.

We will feature the Jesus Project Display in the Narthex. We look forward to welcoming all our Seventh-Grade families on March 26th at 9:00am at our St. Symphorosa church.
